

HAWTHORNE

Fine Art

Thomas Linn Brown (1859-1916)

From Providence, Rhode Island, Thomas Brown moved to Fort Worth, Texas and worked as a jeweler until 1889 when he moved to San Antonio and again worked in the jewelry business.

He was a self-taught painter, whose work was described as having "all the New England characteristics of fog and cloudy, gloomy effects such as exist before or after a rain".

Brown exhibited with the San Antonio Art League where he won a medal in 1894, and the Annual Texas Artists Exhibition. He died at his home and is buried in Fort Worth.

Source:

John and Deborah Powers, "Texas Painters, Sculptors, and Graphic Artists"

Information courtesy of Askart.com